

Kalbak-Tash. Panel 4

Description

A large horizontal rocky outcrop has a multifigured composition with zoomorphic figures. Large images of marals prevail. All have a large body with a big hump and a small head on a long neck. Some animals have horns. Most of the figures are contour, some have a silhouette neck, some of the figures have a body filled with single traces of pecking.

Technical description

The surface of the panel is damaged as a result of erosion processes. The rock crust is cracked, peels off and crumbles locally. Local foci of lesions by lichens are recorded.

Epoch

Bronze age, Neolithic

Method

Retouch

Description authors: V. Konokhov